Tree Planting Programs ∞

Planting trees to commemorate special events, in honor or in memory of a friend or loved one, or as a gift, is a great idea. We've collected links to websites offering advice for planting trees on your own, as well as organizations that will plant trees on your behalf in an area where tree planting is needed most.

American Forests plants trees where they are most needed. They also provide studies & information on the impacts of the loss of trees on urban areas. For a donation of $15 or more, they will plant a tree on your behalf and send a gift certificate.

Lowcountry ReLeaf is a huge list of local urban forest groups that might do tree planting where you live. <http://www.lpb.org/programs/forest/groups.html>

Tree People, based in Los Angeles, CA, is one of the premier tree planting and environmental education groups in the country. They plant dedicated trees on your behalf all over the LA-area, including planting fruit trees in low income neighborhoods. They will plant a grove of 5 trees for $75 and send a you, or your recipient, a gift certificate. They also have educational programs for young people in the greater Los Angeles area. www.treepeople.org, 1-818/753-TREE (8733).

Trees for Life has planted over 30 million fruit trees in developing countries for as little as $10 a tree and provide a gift certificate to acknowledge the trees planted. They also have "tree of life" adventure kits for individuals and for classrooms, that help you get hands-on experience with planting and caring for trees. www.treesforlife.org, 316-945-6929.
